Nishita dinner set at The House of Things ₹51,000 onward

Beyoncé & Jay-Z
Much like her name Queen B, the singer's home is a well-balanced mix of royal and hip-hop; where Persian rugs sit comfortably with pop prints. If you're loud and proud, then Jay-Z and Beyoncé's home, filled with vibrant red, is the look for you.

Homestop Ivy cushion ₹599

Fabfurnish rainforest wing chair ₹37,499

Baaya Design wall art Price on request

Caitlyn Jenner
Jenner leaves the world of bling and the Kardashians behind and opts for a more subtle and nurturing abode. Just because it's neutral-hued doesn't mean it's boring — the different tones add a welcoming touch and Caitlyn makes it stylish with statement pieces.

Homestop Ivy cushion ₹499

Address Home Taj collection ₹13,000 onwards

Michael Aram at The House of Things salt & pepper shaker ₹8,500

The Furniture Republic rigby set ₹1,15,000

Sarita Handa cushion Price on request

The Furniture Republic mirror ₹18,900

Steve Wozniak

Wozniak's house is all about chrome, glass and steel. Everything here is sleek and cool, much like Apple products. It may look stark, but the elements work well together and there's no doubt of his home's functionality.

Pharrell Williams

His red carpet style is classic with a twist — think of his cropped suit pants or large hat — much like his decorating style. Williams keeps it basic but adds interesting elements such as modern light fixtures and modular chairs.

Urban Ladder lounge chair ₹15,199

The Furniture Republic clock ₹14,900

The Edit at The House of Things fruit platter ₹4,500

FLOORED! CARPET FOR A ROYAL AFFAIR

Jaipur Rugs took two years to create the largest and costliest Persian hand-knotted piece for a Saudi royal

rashmi.menon@timesgroup.com

For Jaipur Rugs, a global designer rug manufacturing company, getting orders for rugs and carpets of different sizes and designs is mundane. But even they had the rug pulled out from under their feet when they received an order for the largest floor carpet that the company has ever created.

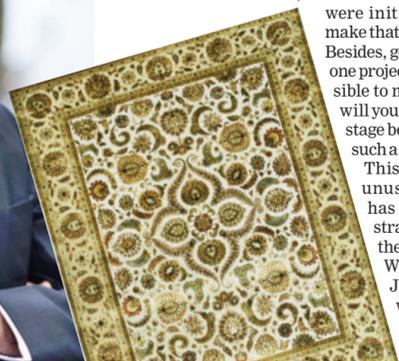

The traditional floral design Persian hand-knotted (almost two million knots) carpet, weighing 200 kilos, took Jaipur Rugs two-and-a-half years to create. Measuring 20x32 ft in size, the wool and silk woven carpet comprises 25 shades of colours, the dominant ones being medium ivory and light gold.

"Since it's one of a kind, there is no retail price fixed. But my estimation is that it would be sold between $300,000 to $1 million (₹2-6 crore). It has been ordered by someone associated with the royal family in Saudi Arabia. Around 14 weavers worked on the carpet, with nine weavers working on it at any given point in time. It's a traditional floral design," says Yogesh Chaudhary, Director, Jaipur Rugs.

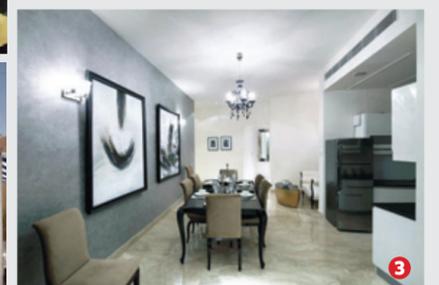

When he was first approached with the order, Chaudhary refused to take the assignment. But the customer's persistence paid off. "We were initially hesitant. First, you have to make that long a wool. Where will it be made? Besides, getting so many weavers to work on one project is not easy. It's also nearly impossible to manage as the size is huge. Where will you wash it and do the finishing? Every stage becomes challenging when you have such a large carpet," says Chaudhary.

This may have been amongst the more unusual demands that Jaipur Rugs has catered to, but the company is no stranger to celebrity clients. Amongst them are tennis star Venus Williams, Walmart CFO Jill Anderson, Nick Jonas (from the Jonas Brothers) who has used a rug in his daughter's nursery, cricketers Brad Hodge and Shaun Tait.
